Online Learning Platforms

Due to the recent pandemic, online learning has become a must for students around the world to continue their education without disruption. Globally, over 1.2 billion children are out of the classroom. As a result, education has changed dramatically, with the distinctive rise of e-learning, whereby teaching is undertaken remotely and on digital platforms. For the online platform edX, they saw a 15-fold increase in the number of new learners registering on the month of April 2020. Thus, it is important for students and teachers alike to choose the right platform to fulfil their online learning needs, and to host a virtual classroom that is accessible to all. In my opinion, an online learning platform shouldn't have a steep learning curve to use, it should be easy to use for teachers, students and administrators alike. Some of the free options that can be used to host virtual class are Google Meet and Zoom meet. Although, I think teachers should use Telegram video call more often because it doesn't have a call time limit and can have 10,000 users to join the same call. In conclusion, teachers and students should discuss on the best platform to perform their online education for the most effective learning experience.
